York County Sheriff's Office Safety Tip of the Day

Several community members have reported that they have received an email or a text alert supposedly from the Post Office claiming that a package could not be delivered due to insufficient postage. We discovered that if you call the number, they will ask for a credit card number and say they are going to charge you a nominal fee (usually a dollar or two). In reality, they deduct hundreds of dollars from your account. The Postal Service does not use email notification to let customers know about insufficient funds. They will leave a sticky note on your door, in your mailbox or in your post office box. Please don't fall for this scam.

Stay safe,
